

McLaren Vale Shiraz

92 POINTS | ANDREW GRAHAM

This red shows the way – it's modern McLaren Vale Shiraz in full splendour. Bold and black fruited, it sings with a licoricey, chunky, mid-palate driven style, the flavours chunky, the palate seductive. I almost picked this as having some Viognier in the mix, such is the silkiness and sly perfume. The late warmth is unavoidable (if a distraction), but it doesn't hurt the appeal. I gave half the bottle to my brother in law who doesn't always drink Shiraz and he loved it too. I can see why. Best drinking: I like it now. Sure it will settle a bit but it's ready now.

92 POINTS | PATRICK ECKEL

A quintessential example of McLaren Vale Shiraz at a great price; the nose is brimming with blackberry and plum alongside milk chocolate, spice and some saline notes. Medium to full bodied with a moreish baseline of tannin and oak richness with the saline note that is constant and an impressive addition to the concentrated dark berry fruits. There is a plushness of milk chocolate to finish with some earthen savoury nuance and excellent length.
